Washburn & Doughty has been designing and building fishing boats, barges, ferries, commercial passenger vessels and custom tugs since 1977.

While working with Sheridan Construction to build a new addition, a fire erupted during the production of two tugboats. Following this tragic fire, Sheridan worked quickly to create new plans which would allow Washburn & Doughty to continue their tugboat production, while the construction of their new, more efficient building took place.

This new facility features two large construction bays, each with a 20-ton bridge crane, and three stories of fabrication support mezzanines running along the center of the building.

Building on our promise.
